ATLANTIC SHORE LINE INCREASED ITS BUSINESS

Financial Statement Filed with the Maine Railroad Commissioners

Augusta, Me., Oct. 3.—The annual report of the Atlantic Shore line railway for the fiscal year ending June 30, filed at the office of the Maine state board of railroad commissioners, shows that during the past year the gross earnings from operation were $348,207.27, as against $295,152.09 for the preceding year, an increase of $53,055.18; operating expenses $229,431.27 against $160,972.52, an increase of $68,458.75 for the preceding year; net earnings from operation, $118,775.99, as against $134,179.57 for the preceding year, a decrease of $15,403.58; interest and taxes, $110,679.64, as against $93,519.03 for the preceding year; surplus for the year, $2,396.35, as against $40,659.54, a decrease of $38,263.19 over the preceding year; surplus at the close of the year, $51,758.85, as against $19,082.49 for the preceding year an increase of $2,676.36. The report indicates that during the past year $19,812.41 have been expended upon the track, line and buildings in excess of the previous year, and that $6,511.19 has been expended on the equipment in excess of the previous year. The management report that about seven miles of new trolley wire has been installed to take the place of wire badly worn, and that this, together with the expenses of the serious accident in August, 1907, accounts to a large extent for the decrease in the net surplus, which are extraordinary expenses. Other items in the report are as follows: Maintenance of track and roadway, $11,933.71; maintenance of electric line, $7,456.62; maintenance of buildings and fixtures, $1,896.57;

maintenance of steam plant, sub stations, cars and equipment, etc., $23,417.35; wages of motormen and conductors, superintendent of transportation, car house employees, moving snow and ice and other expenses, $65,897.62; operation of ferry, $15,356.03; insurance, $6,411.92. The following are some of the items under mileage, traffic and miscellaneous statistics: Passenger and freight car mileage, 1,499,381; fare passengers carried, 5,881,581; average fare revenue passengers, .047; car earnings per car hour, $2.33; average number of employees, including officials during the year, 250; aggregate amount of salaries and wages paid, $128,389.25.

SEABROOK

The annual session of the state council Order of United American Mechanics, will be held at Seabrook on Tuesday, the session opening at 9.30 a. m. Monday night there will be a school of instruction, at which the first degree will be exemplified by Southegun comit of Milford, the second by Governor Wear's council of Seabrook, and the third by Evening Star council of Manchester. It is expected that a substantial gain will be shown this year, during which W. F. Bean of Manchester has been state councilor.

The navy yard workmen work this afternoon. No more Saturday afternoon variations.

C. E. CARR OF ANDOVER

Is the Substitute Democratic Candidate for Governor

Concord, N. H., Oct. 3.—The executive committee of the Democratic state committee of the Democratic state committee, acting under the authority vested in it by the last Democratic state convention met last evening in this city and selected Clarence E. Carr of Andover as the party's candidate for governor, succeeding Judge George H. Bingham of Manchester, who declined the honor.

Late at night, at the close of the committee meeting the following formal statement was given out: "We have unanimously nominated Hon. Clarence E. Carr of Andover, the present chairman of the state committee, as our candidate for governor. He is the logical candidate, and will undoubtedly command the united support of the reform element in New Hampshire. From the first agitation against the free pass and the lobby and the first discussion of equality in railroad and corporation taxation, Mr. Carr has been an earnest and intelligent participant. He is a lawyer by education, a clean, upright business man by occupation, prominent in educational, charitable and religious work, and employer of labor who has never had any trouble with his employees, and his name is a guarantee of his Democracy. If Mr. Carr had been willing to allow his name to go before the convention, he would have been nominated by acclamation, and we feel that we have merely reflected the sentiment of the convention in selecting him as our standard bearer."

No action was taken at that meeting relative to the election of a chairman of the state committee to succeed Mr. Carr.

It was voted to authorize the chairman and secretary of the state committee to fill any vacancies that may occur in the ticket.

Who the Candidate Is

Clarence E. Carr was born in Keene, Jan. 31, 1853. He moved to Andover when two years of age where he has made his home ever since. He attended school at Andover, New London and Meriden and graduated from Dartmouth college, class of '75. He studied law in the office of John M. Shirley; was admitted to the bar in 1878 and was in partnership with Mr. Shirley until 1882. He was a member of the house in 1878, serving on the committee on normal school and in 1879, a member of the judiciary committee and chairman of a special committee on railroads, of which Congressman F. D. Chandler was a member.

In 1882, he went to Boston and began the practice of law and entering the business of manufacturing hames with his father and brothers, and is now manager of a branch of the United States Hame company. He is treasurer of Proctor academy, president of the New Hampshire Unitarian association; he is a trustee of the John H. Pearson estate with Judge Remick and Alvin B. Cross of Concord. He is also trustee of several smaller funds. He was chairman of the Democratic state convention of 1902 and was recently chosen chairman of the state committee. His wife is a grand-daughter of John Proctor, a man prominent in New Hampshire affairs, in whose former home, his family now lives. They have three children—a daughter who attended Wellesley and Radcliffe colleges, and now resides at home; a son, "Shorty," who graduated from Harvard in 1902 and was captain of its baseball team and another son, now a sophomore in Harvard.

Judge Bingham Prefers the Bench

Judge George H. Bingham Monday declined a nomination as Democratic candidate for governor of New Hampshire. He stated that by teaching and experience he is better fitted for the duties of the law than of politics. He considered, he stated, the duty and the honor and would accept "if there were not countervailing reasons both public and private" to influence him. He reviewed his work as lawyer and stated that for five years he has by study and experience fitted himself for his profession as a jurist and he "finds the work pleasant and congenial."

The committee of nomination, headed by John T. Ames of Lancaster, reached Judge Bingham's home shortly after noon and were then hopeful. The chairman told him of the work of the convention and urged him to accept the nomination. Judge Bingham thanked the committee for the honor and reviewed the great encouragement that had come from the public and the press, "but," he said, he felt keenly the responsibility.

It was true, he said, that some men are far better fitted for the office in the state than he is, and added that he did not desire to contest the office in the arena of politics. After trying in vain to have Judge Bingham reconsider the decision the committee sorrowfully left him and returned to the Manchester Hotel, where the announcement was made.

BRING FIREMEN TO PORTSMOUTH

Annual State Convention Should be Held in This City

Portsmouth should make a move towards having the next annual convention of the state Firemen's Relief Association held in this city.

Several reasons are given why this city should be selected as the meeting place of the convention.

First, because it is the convention city of the state.

Second, because all firemen like to come to Portsmouth.

Third, because no other New Hampshire city can entertain visitors like Portsmouth.

Fourth, because the last convention held here was the best in the history of the organization.

To obtain this meeting it will be considered that it is of little expense to a city, as the association allows $200 to help to defray the expenses.

The convention is generally held in one day but if this city would do a little toward the matter the same could be carried out for two days and following the convention, have one day for a parade of the local department and band concerts.

IT WOULD BRING MANY VISITING FIREMEN HERE BESIDES MANY FROM THE SURROUNDING TOWNS.

NO CHOICE On the Republicans First Ballot

For Lieut. Governor of Massachusetts

Draper by Acclamation for the Governorship

Boston, Oct. 3.—The Massachusetts Republican state convention today, as its gubernatorial candidate named Lieutenant Governor Elton S. Draper of the date by acclamation.

The big fight is over the nomination for lieutenant-governor, the three candidates being Ex-Speaker Louis A. Frothingham of Boston, Speaker John N. Cole of Andover and Robert Lee of Somerville.

There was no choice on the first ballot. Frothingham led, with Cole second, and Lee third.

AT THE NAVY YARD

Captain Bishop, U. S. M. C., reported for duty at the navy yard today.

Harvey E. Schwartz, civil engineer in construction and repair, has returned from a sick leave.

Capt. E. K. Moore will shortly fly his flag as rear admiral. His commission will date from Sept. 7.

The remainder of the crew of the U. S. S. Castine arrived late on Friday afternoon and the ship will probably go into commission tomorrow.

Dry dock building always entails many delays and disappointments, but it is doubtful whether any dry dock in the country has such a record of annoying hitches and blunders as No. 4, now in course of construction at the New York navy yard. It is situated between docks 1 and 2, and there are conditions of quicksand and other obstacles that make the task anything but easy. However, all these probable impediments were set forth in the debate between the contractors and the government, which is free from any responsibility. The company that undertook the rebuilding of the work and got the excavation well under way gave up the job, which was turned over to the Williams Engineering and Construction company. The navy experts have found that the preliminary work of the new company is not effectual and the department has been protesting against the loss of time. The trouble seems to lie in the piling. There have been several bad cave-ins since the digging was begun. Now the company assures the department of yards and docks that it will soon have additional sheet piling adequate to overcome all difficulties. The dock is nearly two years behind in construction.

A detachment of sailors arrived for the U. S. S. Marietta on Tuesday.

The ferry 132, U. S. S. Marietta and Eagle are to go in the dry dock on Tuesday.

No official report of the last survey of Henderson's Point has been given out.

Chaplain Frank Thompson, U. S. N., is now in charge of all religious work on the receiving ships Topoka and Southery, and at the naval prison.

A member of the bellmakers' force, who has an exhibition a monstrous pumpkin at his farm, says it is still growing. The last account of its weight was 150 pounds. Next.

The tug Nevenscott will relieve the ferry, 132, on her trips while the latter is in the dry dock for repairs.

The turbines at the barracks yard that the football team representing the guard will certainly make good.

Quart. E. K. Moore is in Manchester today.

The contractors on the central power plant extension are expecting to complete all work within two weeks.

A small amount of work is being done on the coilers Maxwell and London.

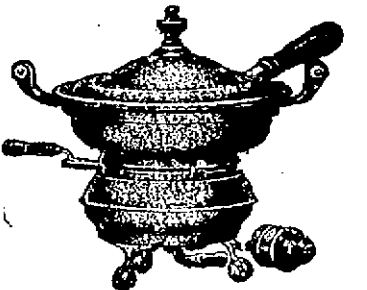

Passed Assistant Surgeon Charles C. Smith at the naval hospital on Friday accompanied a sick man from the prison ship Southery to the hospital at Washington, where he has been sent for treatment.

Orders were issued today regarding the movement of boats landing at the yard and directs that on and after Oct. 5, 1908, private boats carrying more than one person will not leave the navy yard until 4.30 p. m. on working days.

During the summer months, on Saturdays, when only half days are worked, boats will not leave the yard until 11.10 a. m.

TWO INJURED IN ELECTRIC ROAD ACCIDENT

Mrs. Margaret Beane Of This City And Elmer Riley Of Kittery Badly Bruised

A closed car on the Atlantic Shore line electric railroad, left the track near William avenue in Kittery on Friday, and the motorman, Mr. Elmer Riley was badly injured and Mrs. Margaret Beane of No. 11 Park street, this city, was badly shaken up and injured.

When going down over the hill near William avenue, the car, one of the four wheel small boxed affairs, left the rail and crashed into a telegraph pole to one side of the rails.

So great was the force of the contact that the pole was broken off short and the passengers hurled in every direction. Motorman Elmer Riley stuck to his post, but was unable to check the car and when it struck the pole he was thrown with great violence and badly bruised about the body.

Mrs. Beane, who was on her way to Kittery Point was thrown from her seat and she was so badly shaken up that she was removed to her home in this city. A physician called and Friday night it was feared that she was seriously injured.

The accident was said to be due to a defective wheel on the car.

EXPRESS RATES "EXCESSIVE AND UNREASONABLE"

Massachusetts Railroad Commissioners Give A Decision Against Companies

Boston, Oct. 2.—That the rates of the American Express and National Express companies within a radius of 50 miles of Boston are "excessive and unreasonable" is the decision of the railroad commissioners in the matter of the complaint of the Merchants Association and others against those two companies.

The commissioners find, as charged by the complainants, that the companies have recently advanced their rates. "It may well be," they say, "that when a complete disclosure of the interstate business of the respondents in this commonwealth has been made to this board, conditions not now before it may suggest a readjustment of express rates in Massachusetts."

"Pending that time, we are of opinion and decide that the existing rates of the respondents in force between Boston and the cities and towns in this commonwealth situated at a distance not greater than 50 miles, as established and maintained under scale No. 39, issued Jan. 6, 1905, and effective, Feb. 10, 1908 are excessive and unreasonable."

The finding of the commissioners is in part as follows:

The petitioners allege "that for a long time past" the respondents "minimum charge, for the forwarding of parcels, packages and articles of property has been 15 cents, and that the charge for forwarding packages and parcels of the weight of 100 pounds has been 15 cents; that recently the respondents have advanced these rates, and now charge and collect in given instances a minimum rate of 25 in place of the 15 cents previously charged and collected, and a rate by the hundred pounds of 50 cents in place of 40 cents heretofore charged; that these advanced rates are unreasonable and excessive, and impose directly upon those who rely upon this service, and upon the public generally, a burden which they ought not to bear."

Within the last 25 years the respondents have consolidated with or assumed the express business of about 20 corporations, firms or persons in Massachusetts. They do business in competition at various points with local express, and also compete at certain points with the Adams Express company, or the New York and Boston Despatch Express company, or both. Certain electric express companies are also in competition at several points.

This section of the country, the first in which the express business was established, has been the last in which the larger express companies have gained a virtual monopoly. An express company, like a railroad company, is a common carrier. It is well established that property becomes clothed with a public interest when used in a manner to make it of public consequence and to affect a community at large and when, therefore, property is so devoted to a use in which the public has an interest, the owner in effect grants the public an interest in that use, and must submit to be controlled by the public for the common good. This doctrine applies to express companies as common carriers.

The express business to and from Boston in the 50 mile zone is distinctive from the express business done in any other part of the country. It is performed in a field of dense population and extremely heavy traffic. The territory within a radius of 50 miles from the state house in Boston contains nearly 3,000,000 residents and includes more cities and large towns than any corresponding area in the United States. Here, if anywhere, express charges should be at minimum rates.

Freight and passenger rates in this territory show no material increases. The argument of the respondents that rates exist in no other part of the country so low as those formerly in operation here is not of itself a reason, in our opinion, for an advance in the territory about Boston. Conditions governing rates elsewhere do not control in this area.

An investigation of other rates in this territory shows that the Adams Express company and the New York and Boston Despatch Express company, serving the territory south and southeast of Boston, have a 15-cent minimum charge. No material advance in rates has been made by local expressmen doing business upon the railroads and railways of the commonwealth.

In determining what these respondents are to be fairly allowed for the public service which they perform, which determination must be made without reference to their interstate business, and applying the rule of proof which we have adopted the board has no hesitancy in declaring that it ought not, on the evidence before it, to approve the rates now in force within the territory which our investigation has been made.

"It is astonishing," remarked a well known authority on Diseases of the skin, "how such a large number of people, especially ladies, are, by attractively written advertisements, induced to purchase some one of the many so called Beauty Creams now on the market, not knowing, of course, that they mostly contain oily or greasy substances that clog the pores of the skin and are, for that reason, the very worst thing that they could possibly use. My treatment of Pimples, Black-heads, Blisters and all eruptions of the skin, are as follows and has, in fact, the face clear and bright every night before retiring with warm water and a little hot meat then try in a small cloth bag, then after drying well, use the following inexpensive and perfectly harmless prescription which can be filled at any Drug Store. Clearskin 1-2 oz. Either 1 oz. Alcohol 7 oz. Use this mixture on the face as often as possible during the day, but use night and morning any way, allowing it to remain on the face at least ten minutes then the powdery film may be wiped off, and not wash the face for some time after using. By following this simple treatment, you will soon have clear and brilliant complexion."

GAVE HIMSELF UP TO POLICE

Minot C. Knight Wanted In North Abington, Mass., For Alleged Breaking And Entering

Minot C. Knight walked into the police station on Friday afternoon and informed Chief of Police Thomas Entwistle that he had come to give himself up.

He informed the chief that he was wanted in North Abington, Mass., for breaking and entering a store there, and he was tired of chasing over the country and evading the officers.

He told a good straight story and the North Abington chief of police was telephoned. He said that Knight was wanted in that town and if the police would hold him they would send an officer for him on Saturday. Knight, who is twenty-seven years of age, appeared to be relieved that his troubles were over with for a time.

LEARNED THE INNOVATIONS

Retired Naval Officer's Comment on a New Order of Things

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Record relates that on one of the week-end cruises the Hartford ran into Castles, Me., where crowd of visitors boarded the ship.

One old, grizzled farmer fell into the hands of a youngster from Montana. For the time being venturers became torpedo tubes, those "sticks" up in the air were to hold up fog nets, the ropes were clotheslines, the engines ran by railroad and the Hartford was the fastest ship afloat. The old boy seemed deeply interested, especially in the chute for getting overboard the logs and arms that might be adrift in action, and the valve for jettisoning out whatever might run into the ship.

When he finally went over the side he was profuse in his thanks. Turning to his escort, he drew out his card, on which was engraved: Rear Admiral U. S. N., Retired, and said: "The old ship has changed since I commanded her."

GREENLAND

The Christian Endeavor prayer meeting is changed from the evening hour of the summer season to Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

Mrs. Thomas F. Westworth closed her Bay-side residence on Friday and left for New York city. Mr. and Mrs. Langton will go to their home at Kittery, Me., and about the first of December go to Florida for the winter.

John P. Marston of Dorchester, Mass., is visiting Mrs. N. P. Marston, his sister-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lindagreen and only child, Harold, have spent the summer season at the Pary cottage and this week have gone to their home in East Boston, Mass., making the journey in their touring car.

CHECKLIST NOTICE

The Board of Registrars of Voters of the City of Portsmouth hereby give notice that they will be in session at the council chamber at City Hall to said city on the following dates viz: Sept. 22, 25, 29, Oct. 2, 6, 9, 13, 16, 20, 23, and at the following hours from 9 a. m. to 12 m.; from 2 to 5, 7.30 to 9 p. m., for the purpose of making up and correcting the checklist of the several wards in said city, to be used at the election to be held Nov. 3, 1908.

The said board will also be in session at the same place on election day, Nov. 3, 1908, from 8 a. m. to 12 m., and from 1 to 4 p. m., for the purpose of granting certificates to those local voters whose names are omitted from the lists.

Voters must bear in mind that it is their personal duty to see that their names are on the lists by presenting themselves at some meeting of this board.

Per order,
Board of Registrars.

MAINE REFERENDUM LEAGUE

To Rally Legislature That It Wants Some Specified Reforms

Waterville, Me., Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the State Referendum League held here last night, the purpose of the organization was discussed. It was decided to interpose the members' cost of the next legislature as to their attitude upon such measures as a corrupt judiciary act, a direct primaries law and a law to reform the present ballot.

The purpose of the proposed league of inquiry is to give the next legislature an opportunity to act upon the laws referred to with the understanding that if no action is taken such laws will be initiated by petition two years later.

SOUTH HAMPTON

Rev. E. S. Cotton formerly pastor of the South Hampton Baptist church but for several years pastor at Norway, Me., has accepted a call at Mechanic Falls, Me., and will soon remove to that town. Mr. Cotton was for nine years pastor at South Hampton.

Rev. E. W. Kenyon, an evangelist, who has spent much time laboring in the West, has been in South Hampton for a short time with Mrs. Kenyon who has been here for several months resting from work with her husband in his chosen calling. Mrs. Kenyon who has been here for several months resting from work with her husband in his chosen calling. Mrs. Kenyon will go this week to Wallace, Idaho, where he will enter upon evangelistic work. He will go later to Spokane, Washington, and afterwards labor for a time in Montana. Mrs. Kenyon expects to join her husband in the West in a short time.

FOOT BALL TODAY

The Portsmouth High school football team will play the Dover High at the Plains this afternoon, the first game of the season. The local boys were out on Friday afternoon and did considerable work in preparation for the game. The team this year has a lot of new material but they are taking hold with a will and ought to give the upriver team a great game.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Women's Ailments.

I am a woman. I know woman's sufferings. I have found the cure. I will tell you, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure, you, my sister, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. You cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or menorrhagia, or any of the ailments of women. I will also tell you why you suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says: "You must have an operation," you can old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which cures all, and effectively cures Leucorrhoea, Green Discharge and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plagues and health always result from its use. Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases, and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours, also the book. Write today, as you may not see this offer again. Address

A BATTLE TO A FINISH.

Names of Frothingham, Cole and Luce Will All Be Presented For Nomination For Lieutenant Govern-
orship—W. D. "Night Before" Ends Busiest Day Republicans Have Experienced in Many a Year.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The settlement of a long and animated three-cornered contest for the nomination for lieutenant governor is the feature of the Republican state convention which met here
today for the selection of a state ticket
and presidential electors.

EBEN S. DRAPER.

No opposition is anticipated to the advancement of Lieutenant Governor Draper of Hopedale to the head of the ticket, nor to the re-nomination of Secretary of State John of Boston, Treasurer Charles of Hopedale, Auditor of Accounts of Malden and Attorney General
Mason of Greenfield.

For the second position on the ticket,
however, three aspirants have been in the field since last spring, and the 1530 delegates. It is anticipated, will be asked to decide between John N. Cole,
speaker of the house of representatives;
former Speaker Louis A. Frothingham
of Boston, and Representative Robert Luce of Somerville.

The caucus for state delegates
were held Sept. 22 and the press returns indicated that Frothingham led in the sentiment of those chosen. Cole promptly and earnestly disputed the accuracy of the figures, and all the candidates continued the campaign with great vigor. As the caucus returns gave no candidate a standing within 100 or more of the 744 votes, a majority vote
of the convention necessary to secure the nomination, the contestants announced that the fight would be carried to the convention. At different times
reports have spread, that agreements
had been reached, but to the eye of the convention the three-cornered fight
progressed with all the intensity which
the near approach of the crisis awakened.

The name of Luce will be presented
by Rev. A. E. Winslow of Somerville.
Cole's name will be placed before the convention by C. H. Bosworth of Springfield and Frothingham's will be offered by United States District Attorney French of Randolph.

The wildest night before that the Republicans ever had at the American house wound up with the promise at Symphony hall of the most raucous
struggle that ever convulsed a Republican state convention. With harmony abandon to the winds, it is to be a smashing, tearing fight from start to finish.

At the close of the evening Speaker
Cole's managers sent out a statement
charging that the Hubbard machine had rushed Democrats with Frothingham badges into the hotel corridors in an attempt to make a showing for Frothingham, and said that but for the intervention of Cole men Speaker Cole would have suffered violence in his own reception room at the hands of men wearing the red.

Booth broke loose. The Luce men,
armed with megaphones, shrieked
from the balconies at the surging crowds. Long files of Cole, Luce and Frothingham men formed flying
wedgies, tipping each other over right and left. Hats were lost and collars wilted. The demonstration, however,
was not ill-natured.

It was the busiest day that Republican affairs have seen for many a year.
The first announcement of the evening
was that the Frothingham men had yielded to the demand of the Luce-Cole combination for a secret ballot at the convention today. It is not only the first time that the Republican machine has changed its program at the behest of those opposed to it, but it is the first time that the Australian ballot has been used at a convention in Massachusetts.

A DISCARDED THRONE.

Louis Napoleon's State Chair, Which Was Not Used.

On the eve of the Franco-German war when the Emperor Louis Napoleon entered upon the conflict which ended so disastrously to himself and his countrymen a couple of strangers appeared at a German town. They brought with them a large packing

case, which on their arrival was carried to a hotel. Here the unknown visitors remained some time and eventually disappeared without paying their bill, which amounted to a considerable sum.

The landlord, whose curiosity had often been aroused with reference to the possible contents of the case, at last determined to open it, and on doing so found a handsomely designed and richly upholstered state chair.
This was adorned with the French imperial arms, eagle and Louis Napoleon's monogram, and beneath it was a musical box which played when the cushion was sat upon.

It is supposed that the throne—for such it is believed to have been—in the event of success attending the French army was to have been used by the emperor at Berlin after the capture of the German metropolis. Fate, however, spoiled the imperial plans; hence the sudden and precipitate flight of the custodians of the chair. The widow of the hotel keeper a few years later sent it to England, where it eventually found a purchaser.—Stray Stories.

CRITICISMS CENSURED.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 3.—Speaking last night before the German Bryan club
of Lincoln, William J. Bryan answered
the criticisms which had been made of him by Governor Hughes and other Republican leaders that his experience
in public life was not sufficient to qualify him for the presidency.

Mr. Bryan asked his audience "why
this new-born zeal for experience?"
He cited Abraham Lincoln, General
Grant, Benjamin Harrison and Mr.
McKinley as having had no particular experience previous to their nominations. As for Governor Hughes, who,
he said, had laid special emphasis on Bryan's experience and qualifications, he declared he had had but two years' experience as governor of the state of New York, and he thought three months ago
that he was as well qualified for the presidency as Taft.

Taking up the charge that he may not make wise appointments if elected to the presidency, Bryan insisted that the argument should not be made by a Republican because, he said, for the next two years at least the senate would be Republican and would pass upon all important appointments, thus sharing
in the responsibility if any objectionable men are named.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that I can find such excellent men that even a Republican senate will not dare to reject them." After discussing a number of issues he said: "The Republican argument that we hear so much of now
is that Democratic success will disturb business. Our contention is that Democratic success will restore prosperity. How can the Republicans threaten us with a panic, when a panic came under the present president and is still upon us?"

TAFT ON BEET SUGAR.

Denver, Oct. 3.—In the Denver An-thorium, William H. Taft last night addressed a tremendous throng, setting forth reasons and arguments why the Nebraska should not be elected. His subjects ranged widely over the various issues of the campaign. He paid his respects to Mr. Bryan several times, and received encouragement from the audience in so doing. One new feature of his address was in handling the subject of the beet sugar industry,
which he took as an illustration of Democratic proposals towards the trusts.
Beet sugar, he said, was a trust-made article. The Democrats proposed to put all such articles on the free list
just to punish the trust. This, he said, not only punish the trusts, but would also punish many innocent
farmers and producers as well.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN?

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 3.—"Theodore Roosevelt for president again, eight years from now," was the declaration of the president's son-in-law, Congressman Longworth, in a speech he made on the grounds of the Tribune exposition to a large audience that cheered
the sentiment again and again.

Mr. Longworth's statement was made during the course of a eulogy and defense of the president's administration.
The first proposed that the Republican leader for the next eight years, William H. Taft, should be returned to that office for a second term. Following Taft as president, seriously declared Longworth, Theodore Roosevelt should be returned to the chair.

LYNN LASTERS' STRIKE GROWS.

A Thousand Men Make an Effective Demonstration.

FACTORY GATES LOCKED.

Employees of Hennessy & Thompson
Jumped Over Fence to Join Yelling Crowd Which Had Marched Front Union Headquarters—Reconciliation Becomes an Issue.
—General Tieup Not Unlikely.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 3.—The 1200
lasters who went on strike in fifty-four of the shoe factories of this city at noon
yesterday lost no time in starting a campaign in an effort to add to their rank the men who still remained at their machines, and in the afternoon
the first of a series of demonstrations
was held.

About 1000 strikers gathered at the union headquarters and marched to the factory of Hennessy & Thompson at West Lynn, where the lasters had remained at work, one and a half miles away. Finding the gates of the factory locked, they congregated in front of the building and made a great appeal, shouting and yelling, and urging
the men to quit their work and join them.

Finally one of the lasters in the factory jumped out of a window and standing on the fence in front of the building, made a speech to the strikers.
He was an American and in broken
English he made known the attitude of the men who remained at work in the building. He said that he and a majority of the lasters sympathized
with the strikers, but that at noon-
time when the strike was declared, the gates of the building were closed and the men were locked in.

Concluding his remarks, he jumped off the fence into the crowd and called
to his fellow-workers to follow him,
which the most of them did. After words many of the Hennessy & Thompson lasters started back to their work
after their ties, but were refused admittance. The strikers remained at the factory until late in the afternoon, continuing their demonstration.

On their way back to the headquarters the strikers visited the Albert Creighton & Son factory on Willow street. They arrived there just as the employees were leaving the factory for the day, and the lasters assured them
striking brothers that they would not return to work today.

The union officials state that the demonstrations will be continued and every factory where men are at work in the
lasted departments will be visited.

A mass meeting was held upon the return of the strikers to the union headquarters, and a committee was appointed to discuss the issues of the strike at all the factories where the lasters may be inclined to return to work.

Besides the action of the Joseph Caunt company in installing new pulling-over and assembling machines and employing girls to operate them, this doing away with the services of fifteen men, there is another issue in the strike, a wage reduction which was introduced recently, which lowered the rate per dozen pairs from 25 to 16 cents.

All the lasters employed by every concern which is a member of the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' association, a branch of the National Shoe Manufacturers' association, the strikers declare,
will be made to go on strike, and as most of the shoe manufacturers are members of the association, if the strike order is carried into effect, it will mean a general stop of the shoe
manufacturing industry in this city.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon,
however, it was decided by the union
that if any manufacturer could convincingly prove to the executive board
that he was not a member of the Manufacturers' association his employees
would not be disturbed, and his lasters
would have the privilege of choosing their own alternative. Already one manufacturer, the G. K. & A. H. Jones
Co., has resigned from the association,
and the firm of Hennessy & Thompson
have declared their intention to do so.

The Manufacturers' association have made no effort to treat with the striking lasters as yet, as they did not anticipate that the strike would include more than the Caunt company operatives, and no meeting has been called.

DIED FROM EXHAUSTION.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 3.—Joseph N.
Farrar, aged 90, who had been missing
since Thursday noon, was found last evening lying near the railroad tracks
in upper Union street. He was breathing faintly, but died before medical aid
could be summoned. It is believed that Farrar, who was very feeble, was overcome by cold and exhaustion while taking his usual walk.

DISEASE AND PAIN.

The Theory That Suffering Is Mental
More Than Physical.

A great deal of alleged physical suffering is primarily mental. A great many people have "fixed ideas" of disease, pain, debility, fatigue, great inefficiency and unexpressible woes.
Much often than we realize these can be transplanted without surgery or medication. I do not mean that they are not real sufferings. They are as real as the grave, but they are not grounded in physical infirmity, and they are not to be cured with physics. The mind becomes possessed of a conviction that a certain part of the body is infirm and impales pain to that part in spite of all the medicine in the world. Hundreds of people refuse to get well after the physician has cured them. It is not his fault, and it is not their fault. But they have simply had disease suggested to them until they cannot think at all except upon that assumption. It is an "auto-suggestion," or it is a family suggestion, and the only way to remove it is by the vigorous counter suggestion of another person. The value of a "fixed idea" of health, as being only the removal of a fixed idea of disease where there was no organic reason for it, will hardly be disputed. Yet one cannot overemphasize the multitude that there are
of these invalids sitting in padded chairs
and making ready for the horse whose trouble is primarily mental, and how many there are, again, who have a slight organic infirmity and have increased its effects a thousandfold by what we may call "household suggestion."—Max Eastman in Atlantic Monthly.

AN INSECT TRAGEDY.

The Nest the Mother Butterfly Builds
For Her Young.

There is something really pathetic in the way a mother butterfly builds a nest for her children. In the first place, the little home where the eggs
are deposited represents a great deal
of sacrifice, for it is lined with several layers of down plucked from the mother's own soft body. The eggs having been laid carefully upon this luxurious,
pretty couch, are protected by an equally pretty coverlet made of the same material.

These butterfly bedclothes are often arranged with an intricacy that is quite curious and perplexing. Sometimes a bed is made so that each separate delicate hair stands upright, thus giving the entire nest the appearance of a brush of downy fur. Then again the eggs are laid spirally round a tiny
branch, and, as the covering follows
their course, the effect resembles the bushy tail of a fox, only the nest is more beautiful than the bush of the finest fox that ever roamed over country.

The building of this downy nest is the latest earthly labor of the mother butterfly, for by the time it is completed
her own delicate body is denuded of its natural covering and there is nothing left for her to do but die, a sacrifice
which she promptly and heroically
makes in the interest of the coming butterfly generation.

Must Pension Themselves.

Domestic servants in Germany come under the law that obliges all persons below a certain income to provide for their old age. The postoffice issues cards and stamps, and one of these stamps must be dated and affixed to the card every Monday. Sometimes the employers buy the cards and stamps
and show them at the postoffice each month. Sometimes they expect the servant to pay half the money required. Women who go out by the day get their stamps at the house they work in on Mondays. If a girl marries she may cease to insure and may have a sum of money toward her outfit. In that case she will receive no old age pension. But if she goes on with her housework she will have from 15 to 20
marks ($3 to $4) a month from the state after the age of seventy.

Working His Patient.

Ambassador Wu Ting Fang was
one, it is alleged, telling about a certain selfish politician. He said: "The man reminds me of a doctor of Shanghai. A mandarin came to this doctor for advice. He could not sleep, had no appetite, suffered a good deal from depression and nevertheless was taking on fat at an alarming rate. 'Well, soon put you in condition again,' said the physician. 'What you need is exercise—
good, hard exercise. Four times a week you can come here and put in the morning polishing my shoes.' 'But why not my own shoes?' the mandarin
inquired. 'Mine,' said the physician,
'are larger.'"

A Rabbit and a Whistle.

Did you know that a short, sharp whistle from the mouth would stop a rabbit? It surely does. Next time you see little Molly Cottontail leap from her burrow and make off don't shoot; just whistle. Whether from fear or envious I cannot tell, but she will stop still in her tracks. An antelope has been known to do likewise. An African hunter once said that the elephant is the most timid of all animals and can be frightened into a cold sweat by a mysterious noise.—New York Press.

These Consultations.

"Why do they have consultations of physicians, pa?"
"Sometimes one doctor can think of something to operate for that hasn't occurred to the other."—Smart Set.

Not Always.

"Well," said the cannibal chief as his followers brought in the lean but plucky explorer, "who in blazes ever
said 'the bravest are the tenderest?'"

ARTISTIC TASTE.

In This the French Are First and the Irish Come Next.

Artistic taste is due to temperament,
and where this exists the simplest materials lend themselves to artistic combinations and beautiful effects.

The French excel in dainty, graceful designs because of their volatile, swift loving temperaments. The Germans
can never reach these heights because their temperaments are just the reverse, while it has been proved in several workrooms that, next to the French, the Irish temperament is the most artistic.

The more artistic the general training of a person the more ready are they to appreciate and profit by the fine productions of others; hence we are glad to see and grateful for the privilege of studying the "models"
brought from Paris each season by the enterprising importers.

MINE TIMBERS.

They Add Eight Cents to the Cost of Each Ton of Anthracite.

The cost of every ton of anthracite is increased 8 cents by the expense of the mine timbers. To supply these timbers, says the Vegetation Magazine, requires each year the product of approximately 150,000 acres of forest.

Timber is used for cross ties for train roads in the main haulage ways
as wooden rollers and as props. A set of gangway timber consists of two logs, commonly nine or ten feet long
and about thirteen inches in diameter
and a collar six or seven feet long.
These sets are placed on an average at intervals of five feet. One gangway frequently contains 1500 sets, and the gangways to a colliery is not an unusual number.

The average life of the timber is hardly above two years. Forty-five percent of the timbers are destroyed by decay, while breakage, wear and injury destroy the remainder. By peeling the timbers and properly seasoning
them and especially by giving them
a treatment in oils or chemical salt
their length of service is materially increased.

The Marble and the Pencil.

The marble trick is as old as the days of Aristotle. Cross the middle and fore fingers and roll a marble between them. The marble will feel like two because it is being felt in an uncon-tomed way. If a pencil is drawn between the crossed fingers the one pencil will feel like parallel bars. The same illusion may be worked by placing the pencil between the lips and
then moving the under lip to one side causing the pencil to feel like two.
More curious than any of these is the one where the forefinger is crossed over the little finger behind the other two and then applied to the end of the nose. Not only can you feel two noses
but one of them seems to be about inch longer than the other. This last illusion is caused by the fact that we do not ordinarily feel the edge of any object with these two fingers at the same time unless the part felt with the little finger projects beyond the part felt by the forefinger.—St. Louis Republic.

She Said So Anyway.

The young man who was endeavoring to win the favor of Bobby's pretty sister met her boy on the street one morning and greeted him with much cordiality.

"Do you think your sister was pleased to know I had called the other day?" he was at last forced to ask.
"Sure," said Bobby, with gratifying promptness. "I know she was. I heard her say so."

"When she came home mother said,
'Mr. Brown called while you were out,'
and she said: 'He did? Well, I'm glad of that!'"—Youth's Companion.

Ink on Leather.

For ink spots on leather chairs wash
the spots with milk, renewing the milk
till it is no longer stained and the spot on the leather has disappeared.
Then wash the leather with warm water, and when dry polish it with a very little linseed oil and vinegar mixed in equal parts. The ink stain should be removed as quickly as possible, for if allowed to dry and harden it is doubtful whether you will ever be able to entirely remove it.

BIG MONEY.

Wanted By Jeffries If He Takes a Trip to Australia

James J. Jeffries, retired heavyweight champion of the world, has been asked to referee the fight between Tommy Burns, active holder of the title, and Jack Johnson, which is scheduled to be held at Sydney, Australia, late in November. In answering, Jeff said that he would act as referee provided his terms are complied with.

Jeff's terms are that he be paid $5-000 for his services and receive his transportation expenses. This is more than Jack Johnson was offered by a syndicate of English sportsmen
for a fight with Tommy Burns in England, and more than he is guaranteed
for the coming fight.

If the managers of the club that is to hold the Burns-Johnson battle
agree to Jeff's proposition, the champion will receive the highest price ever paid a referee. But at that the altima farmer's demand is not an exorbitant one, when it is considered that he would be a bigger "drawing card" in Australia than either of the men who are to fight.

The Australians will probably accede to Jeffries' demand, inasmuch as they have guaranteed Burns $30,000
for his end, win or lose or draw.
Hence Jeffries is of the opinion that they will be able to pay him his price
and he declared that he did not think it was an unfair one.

"I will have to leave my business
for a period of time that might make a big difference in the profits," he said, "and besides there is the trouble of travel. It's not like jumping on a car and being back home in the evening. I wouldn't even consider acting for any less."

FOR PERSONAL INJURIES.

Cocheco Company Defendant in Twenty-Five Thousand Dollar Suit.

Dover, N. H., Oct. 3.—At the opening of the superior court in this city
today the suit of W. M. Turner versus Cocheco Manufacturing company, is brought up. Turner seeks the company for $25,000 for personal injuries
received at the burning of their No.
1 mill in the early part of February, 1907.

The burning of the mill was the most disastrous conflagration ever known in this section of the state, in which four operatives were burned to death. Turner testified in the trial
story, and in detail ascertained several injuries, in which he broke a leg and lost his right arm in hip.

The Junior Endeavor will meet at 3.30 in the church vestry and will be led by Mrs. Alexander Dennett. The six o'clock service of the Christian Endeavor society will be led by Mrs. Grace Moore her subject being "Our Vows and Their Fulfillment." At the seven o'clock service the pastor will have for the subject of his sermon, "Paul at Philippi."

Riverside lodge, I. O. O. F., will meet in Odd Fellows' hall on Monday evening.

Order the Herald delivered at your home for three months for one dollar for all of the local news.

A special meeting of Col. Mark Wentworth Camp of Sons of Veterans will be held in Hayes block on Tuesday evening next. A full attendance is desired as business of importance is to be transacted.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Philbrick have been visiting Rev. Walter R. Flanders and wife in Brockton, Mass. for a few days.

Mrs. Alice B. Grant has charge of Mr. George D. Boulter's coal office during Mr. Boulter's vacation at Jackson, N. H.

The services at the Second Methodist church tomorrow will be as usual. Preaching at 10.30 a. m. by the pastor, Rev. Daniel Ostrout, followed by session of Sunday school. Vesper service at 5 p. m. and Epworth League meeting at 6 p. m.

Rev. Daniel Ostrout passed yesterday in Boston on business.

On Tuesday evening in Grange hall a merkle and apron party and dance will be held.

The Second Methodist church will hold a harvest festival in the vestry of the church three nights next week, beginning Wednesday.

On Wednesday evening there will be a harvest supper, Thursday evening, musical and literary entertainment, and on Friday evening, a campfire at which the Grand Army and Sons of Veterans will attend. Some of the merchants in town will have bonfires and a general good time is expected.

Mrs. Hattie Wentworth has gone to Boston for a few weeks.

A good crop of apples has been harvested from the Neal lot opposite the parsonage of the Christian church. The recent display of Northern lights has been called the best ever.

Butler & Marshall, Auctioneers, 3 Market Street,
PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

The severe wind and cooler weather of Friday made overcasts a necessity and a decided comfort. Weather wisers predict a severe winter following a warm summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Dennett were visitors in York on Sunday.

A girls' club has been organized at the Second Methodist church.

To show how different and how much better school methods of the present are over those our fathers knew, turn the thought to the clubs organized by state of the classes. For instance, for many terms past in Miss Edna A. Rickard's room, intermediate grade of the Wentworth school, there has been a club of Little Helms.

At its weekly meetings its members all in the room, tell of little helpful services rendered. There is an entertainment committee, also a sick committee, besides a committee to see the room is in proper order, with blackboards clean, etc. Working with the club's interest, far better results are of course received, with less expenditure of nervous energy of teacher and pupil. This the progressive teacher is quick to perceive and act upon.

Kittery Point

Dr. J. D. Garty was called aboard the schooner George A. McFadden on Thursday evening to attend one of the crew, who was ill.

Frisbee Brothers have ordered a cargo of coal from New York.

A dance was given Wednesday evening at the Kittery Yacht club.

The Alice Howard was obliged to make two trips Wednesday night to convey the Kittery and York people returning from "Prince Humbag."

Robert Forsyth of Kittery is enjoying a vacation from his navy yard duties which he is passing with friends at their camp on Gooseberry island.

J. A. Phillips is building a shed for Charles Billings in the rear of his residence.

The house of Hyland Mitchell is being shingled.

Some of the local gypsy moth hunters will shortly be ordered to other parts of the state.

The northern lights have been very brilliant for several nights past, although Thursday they were obscured by clouds.

But three families of summer people remain on Gerrish island, the Goodwins, Smiths and Harveys.

The black painted schooner yacht Nautilus of Boston, arrived Friday under close reefs after a rough trip up from Portland on her way home.

Her owner, John D. Crosby, came ashore and reported that the yacht was "bowed down" by an extra heavy pull on the way up, and nearly capsized. He and his family had had all the October yachting they wanted, so they took a train here for their destination.

The schooners Dorothy Palmer, Megana Manson, Edward E. Briley, Jessie R. Hunt and John Twigg, all bound to this port with coal, are wind bound on the Shoals. The latter grounded on Middle Ground Shoal several days ago, but was floated without damage.

The northeast cautionary signals which were flying Friday morning were later replaced by northwest signals, which are still set.

A dance was given in Frisbee's hall Friday evening by Messrs. Bray, Reasiter, Tobey and Synmonds. Music by Cobb and Torman. A good crowd was present.

Schooner James L. Moley, which has been ashore in the Exeter river, was towed to the lower harbor Friday and sailed for Bath. She is undamaged. Schooner Smith Tuttle also sailed and schooner Kate L. Pray, Eaton, arrived.

Barge Herndon is on the way here from Philadelphia with coal.

The thermometer this morning registered thirty-four degrees above zero, though on Tuesday, Sept. 29, it went two degrees lower.

Grenville Whitney of Dover was in town today.

S. E. Woodbury, chief engineer at the power house, has resumed his duties after a vacation of a week.

Wilbur Higgins, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Higgins, is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Plinkham are visiting relatives in Treve, Me.

Arthur C. Gunnison and Fred H. Roffey are in Boston visiting friends over Sunday.

ELECTRIC TIMETABLE

The new timetable on the Portsmouth Electric railway will go into effect on Monday morning.

Cars will leave Market square for North Hampton Beach at 5.30, 6.15, 6.45 (Cable road only), 7.05 and hourly to 10.05. The Sunday cars will run hourly from 8.05 to 9.05.

The Plains loop has half hour cars each way and the Christ Shore loop half hour cars via Market street.

There is no local news missed after reading the Herald every day.

FROM EXETER

Republican Caucus Friday Night

Nomination for All the Various Offices

High School and Academy Football Intentions

News of the Exeter Churches and the Gale Shoe Factory

Exeter, Oct. 3.

At the Republican caucus, held in the town hall last night, Henry W. Anderson, Stevens W. Perkins, Reginald C. Stevenson, James A. Tuffs and Albert J. Weeks were nominated for representatives. The choice for supervisors of the school district was Arthur E. Cooper and Robert Scott. Arthur D. Fuller was nominated for moderator.

Miss Fannie Murphy has resumed her duties at the Western Union telegraph office, after a three months' charge of the company at Waterville, Me.

Although there is no game for this afternoon Coach Glaze drove the Academy football squad through an hour and a half of good stiff practice last night, beginning with drill in breaking through for the line men and finishing with a short snappy signal drill for the two elevens. That old defect, a weak line center, which resulted so disastrously for Exeter in the Bates game, has not entirely disappeared yet but, judging by the time and earnest work Glaze is putting in to strengthen the line, it will be all right before the Williston game, on Wednesday. Paulinger, who was injured last Wednesday in the game with Brewster, has not yet reported for practice but every effort will be made to get him in shape for the Williston clash. Percy, a guard, suffered a severe wrench of the arm last night. It is not known how long he may be out. Considerable attention is being paid to the development of the forward pass. Way easily catches the others in this department for many of his passes go for thirty-five to forty yards.

"Tad" Jones, the former star football and baseball player at Exeter Academy is now at New Haven, as one of the football coaches and it is reported that he will be at New Haven in the spring to take the baseball squad under his direction. A fast, heady player, both in baseball and football, under the direction of Yale coaches he proved himself to be one of the best players that ever rolled a signal. As a catcher, very few if any college backstops were his superior. Jones brought himself particularly into public notice by his stumping tour of Iowa in the interests of temperance. This action attracted considerable attention because few renowned athletes, although condemning the evils of intemperance, ever took a public stand against them. Both the Boston Americans and the Highlanders made attempts to sign Jones but he remained firm in his decision not to enter professional baseball.

C. W. Hudson and family of Denver, Col., have been in town during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cammett and daughter, Edith, accompanied by Mrs. James Robinson are visiting friends and relatives in Albany, N. Y.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met with Mrs. Katherine Davis at her home on High street yesterday afternoon.

Capt. Fred W. Bankton of this village has been elected colonel of the first regiment, New Hampshire brigade, Uniformed Royal Knights Pythias.

Sunday night President W. Douglass McKenzie of the Hartford Theological Seminary will address the Christian Fraternity in the Academy chapel. A large number of students and townspeople will be present as these meetings are arousing considerable interest as the men scheduled to address them are among the ablest and best educated in the country. In the forenoon President McKenzie will preach at Phillips church.

Sunday night there will be a union of the churches in Exeter at the Baptist church. The congregation will be addressed by Rev. M. D. Kneeland, who will take as his topic, "Sabbath Protection." In the morning Dr. Kneeland will preach at the First church.

A temporary tie-up in work was caused yesterday at Gale Brothers shoe factory by the breaking down of the engine. The break at first, was thought to be the timing, but it took three or four hours to put the engine in order again.

Masons are busy repairing the gymnasium.

In sharp contrast to the warm summer weather of a few days ago comes the chilly days which have put straw hats to flight and brought forth overcoats and sweaters.

The local high school eleven and Newburyport High are fighting it out this afternoon at Newburyport.

AT THE CHURCHES

Christ Church—Episcopalian

Monday, 8.30 p. m. Meeting of the Altar Guild.

Tuesday, 7.30 p. m. Annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary.

Wednesday, 7.30 a. m. Meeting of the Guild of Ancestors.

Thursday, 7.30 p. m. Choir rehearsal in the choir room. At the same hour, the annual meeting of the Mite Society.

Friday, 8.00 p. m. Meeting of the brotherhood of St. Andrews.

Salvation Army

The annual Harvest sale at the barracks on Bowdoin street will begin at eight o'clock this evening. The proceeds will be devoted to the work of the Portsmouth Corps.

The regular Harvest Sunday service will be held as follows, led by Captain Robert B. Evans:

Open air service on Water at 10.30 a. m.

Sunday school at 11 a. m. in the barracks. Topic, "Joseph Finding the Garment."

Open air meeting in Market square at 8.00 p. m. Topic, "What Shall the Harvest Be?" This will be followed by a meeting at the barracks.

Evening service at 7.30 in Market square, followed by refreshment at the barracks. Topic, "The Harvest."

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO
Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms, pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel disorders of the eye, sight and hearing dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filter right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Charles E. Oliver, 3 Collins Court, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Suffering for hours caused a constant strain on my kidneys and brought on a severe case of kidney complaint. My back was so lame at times that I could hardly attend to my work and I was also troubled with headaches and attacks of dizziness. When I heard Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use, following the directions closely. The pains in my back and other symptoms of kidney complaint soon left me and I felt much better in every way. The cure has since proven to be a permanent one and I would therefore advise anyone suffering from kidney complaint to use Doan's Kidney Pills."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ALL ABOUT THE FLY
OF INTEREST PARTICULARLY TO THE BALDHEADS.

Its Intelligence Truly an Interesting and Exasperating Study—Believes That Mankind Was Created for Its Amusement.

"The common domestic fly," said a man who is no scholar but has managed to pick up many interesting facts, "is altogether too common and too domestic. She is one of the most interesting animals."
"You don't mean 'animals,'" a friend or broke in, "a fly is not an animal."
"Then she must be a vegetable or a mineral," said the first speaker. "Call her whatever you please, but she is one of the most interesting creatures extant."
"An industrious female fly lays about 500,000 eggs. There are no resident flies and few males. The fly does not set after laying. If she did she would be retired from her wanted activity during layover or shorter periods of incubation. Her eggs hatch without maternal attention, and it is seldom that one fails to hatch."
"The intelligence of flies is an interesting and exasperating study. One of the ordinary ways of trying to kill flies is to fold a newspaper in the shape of a heavy flat pad and chuck at them with it when they are sitting still."
"Now, the fly is familiar with the scientific fact that if she sits perfectly still the descending paper will make an air cushion in front of it that 50 times as fast will prevent her from being crushed. The commoner immediately turns her and she falls to the floor apparently dead, but in a few minutes she has recovered and is again on the job."
"That's why when you strike at a fly with a coach to splatter the butter all over the walls she is able to recover so quickly on the rim of the sugar bowl."
"When out not for food but merely for the fun of tantalizing you the fly knows when she has had enough. Then she sits down on a dark spot in the carpet and watches you prance around the room looking for her on the walls."
"A very good way to catch flies is to distribute fly paper and platters of poison on the tables and window sills. No matter how thick the flies are where this is done, their number will be quickly reduced. You can easily prove this by counting the flies you have caught. It is a great comfort, when there are a few million flies in the air and more coming to count up your catch and know that a dozen or so will never pester you any more."
"This method of getting rid of flies is often employed in restaurants. It was the method used in the railroad restaurant where a passenger hurried in for refreshment, glanced along the display of pies and said:
"Give me a piece of this huckleberry."
"That ain't huckleberry," said the waiter girl, waving her hand over the pie. "It's custard."
"When we were children we were taught to believe that a fly's foot was a wonderful part of creation—that when it was placed that upon the ceiling the weight of the fly pulled it away in the center and made a tiny vacuum and that the pressure of the atmosphere around it, in accordance with a law of nature, held the fly from falling. Several human 'flies' broke their necks trying to do the same trick with artificial flies' feet before it was discovered that if flies kept their feet clean they couldn't walk on ceilings."
"Flies believe that mankind was created for their amusement, and it has always been a question with me which gave a fly the more solid enjoyment—to buzz around your nose and make you get up a few hours earlier in the morning than you want to, or to pester you in the daytime until you rage around the room with a paper shapper in your hand while she watches you from behind a door hinge."

A revolting piano and pianist making music in midair is one of the latest attractions at the New York Hippodrome. The exhibition is described as a "Hindu mystery." Under a show of hypnotic influence both piano and pianist rise up from a platform, and having, by some unknown agency, reached a certain height, the instrument begins to sway from side to side, and in due course is seen swiftly revolving, together with the performer, to the strains of the "Merry Widow" waltz. The performer, it is said, never misses a note, even while upside-down.

Raleigh's Costume.
Sir Walter Raleigh wore a white satin-plumed vest, close-fitted to the waist, and over the body a double-breasted, heavily embroidered with pearls and, in the feather of his hat a large ruby and pearl drop at the bottom of a spray in place of a button. His breeches, with his stockings and ribbon garters, fringed at the ends, were all white; and his buff shoes, on great court heels, were gorgeously covered with precious stones. He had a suit of armor of solid silver, with sword and belt blazing with diamonds, rubies and pearls.

Surprised Several Times.
Patience—Didn't he surprise you when he kissed you?
Patience—Yes; you know he said he was only going to kiss me once!—Yonkers Statesman.

DAILY FASHION TALKS
BY MAY MANTON

A GRACEFUL GOWN IN SURPLICE STYLE.

SURPLICE effects are always pretty, always distinctly feminine and altogether attractive and this gown is so constructed as to give a suggestion of the semi-princess effect while in reality blouse and skirt are quite separate. As illustrated the material is golden brown tulle with trimming of velvet and soutache in a darker shade and is worn over a gilette of cream colored lace. The lines of the gown are all graceful and all charming yet it is so simple that the veriest amateur need not fear to undertake it. The circular skirt is draped to give the tunic suggestion and closes invisibly at the back and the over blouse is made in two portions that are lapped one over the other at the front and at the back, the sleeves and body portion being cut in one. Any gilette that may be liked can be worn beneath, although the plain one with long sleeves is a favorite of the present.

Manton pattern of the over-waist, No. 6103, sizes small 32 or 34, medium 36 or 38, large 40 or 42 inches bust, or of the skirt, No. 6066, sizes 22 to 30 inches waist, will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on the receipt of ten cents for each. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which assures more prompt delivery.)

O'MARA WON THE MARATHON RACE
Nearly Collapsed At Finish, But Got Through A Winner

James O'Mara of North Cambridge won the twenty-three mile Marathon race at Brockton on Friday.
O'Mara was in such bad shape when he reached the track that he stopped in front of the judges' stand. After a rest from the finish and nearly collapsed. He asked as if there might be a recreation at the scene at the finish. Dash when Domingo led O'Mara gathered himself together and dashed in 2 hours, 31 minutes and 20 seconds, unofficial. E. G. Ryder of Jamaica Plain was second by two minutes, Charles Henry of Lynn third and S. A. Moller of Yonkers fourth.
The following were the finishing positions of the runners, with the times of the first five:
1—James W. O'Mara, North Cambridge, 2:35:21.45.

WENT THREE HEROIC MEN IN THE DEAD OF NIGHT.

Ready to Sacrifice Their Lives in Defense of Their Property, They Advanced on the Marauder—The House Cat.

It was night. Deep, dark night, all over Reno, including the home of Tom Ramsey. The darkness in the rooms of the Ramsey home was so dense it could have been discovered by a burglar's convention. Tom Ramsey discovered it as soon as he got home, but he went to bed just the same, and, enjoying the possession of a clear conscience, he went to sleep without a trace of time or anything else. Tom didn't sleep long, however, notwithstanding the darkness of his conscience, and when he awoke it was with the well-defined thought that there was something unusual doing in the house.
Cautiously and with stealth he arose and, securing his trusty automatic from the refrigerator, and wrapping his elating kimonos about his shapely form, he sallied forth from the bedroom into the darkness, now freighted with lurking, mysterious danger, into the rooms beyond. First, he awakened his son in low, tense tones, bade him arise without noise, and arm himself, because there was an anarchist in the basement preparing to blow the house up, or something like that, and, anyway, it was necessary to get a move on.
Mr. Ramsey, Jr., climbed promptly out of bed, and arming himself with a miner's candlestick of the latest and most deadly pattern, followed his warlike father forth to the fray.
There was a roomer upstairs, and he, too, was served with a notice to come forth and do battle in defense of the house of Ramsey, and hastily donning his trousers from the place between the mattresses, where he kept them to keep the crumpled from going away while he slept, he was soon a member of the now fully assembled army.
"Hist!" came from Ramsey, in low, vibrating tones which made the hair on the back of the roomer's neck turn its ends upward and his toes curl in eagerness to be moving away from the scene of the threatened carnage, and in his heart he considered the question whether or not it would not be best to desert, then and there, and so avoid taking the life of the man lurking somewhere in the room, all unknowing, waiting for an awful death.
The son of Ramsey and the roomer followed the lead of the grizzled veteran, guided by the soft, almost inaudible footstep of his silk slippers. From room to room the stealthy moved as silently as the shadows they would have cast if there had been any light, and poked around the corner of every door-jamb in advance of the party was the trusty automatic and the deadly candlestick, and ever and anon came the threatening clatter of the teeth of the roomer, who longed for the fray and glory glory which was sure to follow the onset.
There was nothing doing in the anarchist or dynamite the above stairs, and then the party silently deployed on to the floor below, where it was not kept long waiting.
Suddenly, and with appalling noise, from a far corner of the room came the sound of the enemy. There was a spitting-thudding sound, followed by the crash of a heavy weight striking something with great force, followed in turn by a slighter sound from various parts of the room, and the damnable three were just on the point of opening fire in an attempt to sell their lives as dearly as possible, when the roomer and the younger Ramsey were startled and somewhat relieved to hear the voice of the older Ramsey reverberating in earthen tones: "Oh fridge, it's only a cat."

Silently, and with the gravity befitting the release from the necessity of shedding human blood, the roomer, Ramsey, and Ramsey junior returned to the stumber regions above, thinking of the goodness of providence in sparing them from the necessity of blood shed.—Reno, Evening Gazette.

Eating the Octopus.
At Atlantic City the other day a fisherman caught an octopus, a rare fish in those waters.
The octopus, which resembled a frayed and ruined football of brown leather, was carried home by the fisherman in a bucket of water.
"What am I going to do with it?" he said. "Why, I'm going to eat it. I'd as soon eat octopus as scallops."

"I am a traveler, and I learned in Italy and France the octopus' excellence. You can't give up Italian or the Riviera or a Frenchman of the northwest coast, where the fish abounds, a more welcome dish."
"What does it taste like? It tastes like scallops or like tripe and oysters."

Undisturbed Parental Faith.
"Bilgins thinks he has the smartest children in town."
"But they are always making people uneasy by their meddlesome remarks."
"That's what I told Bilgins. But he says that's the way some of our most prominent smart people got their reputations."

Youthful Assurance.
"When I was your age," said the stern parent, "I was accumulating money of my own."
"Yes," answered the graceless youth, "but don't you think the public was easier then than it is now?"

Not Her Style.
Patience—That man she was going with was on the police force, wasn't he?
Patience—Yes, he was.
"Why didn't she marry him?"
"Oh, he was a plain-clothes man, and that would never suit her!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Ingenuity.
"It requires a very ingenious man to be an inventor, doesn't it?"
"I should say so," answered the mechanical expert. "Getting up an invention isn't so hard, but the ingenuity required to get it on the market is enormous."

THEIR FREEDOM OF THE FARM.
Uncle Charlie Seaver's Welcome to a Large Picnic Party.

"I hope you don't mind if we tramp over your farm this afternoon and picnic awhile in your woods?" cheerfully asked the spokesman of a large picnic party as they walked into the gates of the yard, says Puck.

"Not at all! Not at all!" laughed Uncle Charlie Seaver as he dropped his stockinged feet from the veranda post and shoved up his specs. "Just mossy right along and have a good time. The farm is yours for the day. Take that road near the corncrib and help yourself. Stop a little light, though, in going through those meddler along the creek, as I have never been able to exterminate that bed of rattlesnakes in there, but there's only a couple of dozen of the pesky critters left. I'll get 'em all soon. Better walk around the north pasture where old Joshua is a pawin' and a-bellerin', for he's a powerful bad varmint, and when he commands th' sun to rise you bet he glts. That little ravin' back of the woods is a fine place for a picnic, even if Hank Hawkins dyes say that th' ice dam at the head of th' gully is weak and liable to bust any minute. I took some of th' braces out of th' dam yesterday jiss to prove Hank is a liar."
"If that back sheep over in the orchard gits funny one o' you grab him by th' horns and kick th' wool off him, he's been a mite too frisky since he nearly killed one of the hired men. Don't let th' young 'uns get too friendly with those hornets' nests in the berry patch below th' grain fields. What! Goin' up th' road a piece? Why, yes, I reckon Walt Weaver'll let ye in his big woods. Better stay right here, I give ye th' freedom of th' farm!"

TRUE MONUMENT TO DICKENS.
Found in His Immortal Writings, Says London Journal.

Whether a statue should be erected to Dickens is the subject of an interesting article in the London Spectator. The writer in the course of his browsing quotes from "Mikawber" and says: "Every reader of Dickens, of course, will be able to match his favorite passages against ours. The enthusiasm with which such competitions are often conducted is the truest proof of the solace—we do not use too strong a word—which such memories bring in time of vexation, dullness or grief. And in them—whichever they may be—detached as they are and properly should be, but complete and memorable in themselves, the true monument to Dickens is to be found."

The monument to Dickens was erected by himself. His characters live forever, for they are human in their nature, and we have all seen them. One remembers more of David Copperfield, or Little Nell, or Barks, or Little Dorrit, or Pecksniff, or Samuel Weller, than of the others, perhaps, but where is there a reader of Dickens who has not fixed in his memory at least one of his characters?

Scene of Deadly Struggles.
It is doubtful if there is any portion of the earth upon which there are so many deadly struggles as upon the earth around the trunk of a tree. Upon this small arena there are struggles fierce and wild; here nature is "red in tooth and claw." When a tree is small and tender, countless insects come to feed upon it. Birds come in to devour these insects. Around the tree daily are almost merciless struggles for existence. These death struggles occur not only in the daytime, but in the night. Mice, rats and other destroy millions of young trees. While at their deadly feast, away a tree have they been surprised by a hawk, and then they are at a banquet where they themselves are eaten. The owl, the faithful night-wardman of trees, often swoops down at night, and as a result some little tree is gnawed with the blood of the animal that came to feed upon it.—Week's Work.

The Adventurous Feline.
"Hello, is this the electric light company? Do you take cats down? yes, cats?—She is on a pole, and crying just terribly. She must have been up there a week, for she's just as thin—What?—Oh, this is Fifty-ninth avenue. A big dog is barking at her, too, and she—what street? Why, I don't know; I don't live on this street, do I?—Oh, yes, of course!—Bristol street, the drugist says—Oh, will you?—You are so good! And a man just said she is playing with the trans-fer and might short-circuit herself, or something. Well, thank you very much. I am so glad.—Good-by."—Success Magazine.

College Professors on Defensive.
President C. Stanley Hall of Clark university announces with solemnity that college professors must organize for self protection and boycott all now gathers as enemies to academic dignity and weight. He says: "College professors must do something to keep themselves from being made ridiculous. The time has come when a college professor cannot open his mouth without being made to look, speak and act like a fool."

Patience.—That man she was going with was on the police force, wasn't he?
Patience—Yes, he was.
"Why didn't she marry him?"
"Oh, he was a plain-clothes man, and that would never suit her!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Ingenuity.
"It requires a very ingenious man to be an inventor, doesn't it?"
"I should say so," answered the mechanical expert. "Getting up an invention isn't so hard, but the ingenuity required to get it on the market is enormous."

HAD CHOSEN RIGHT VOCATION.
Young Man's Future in the Legal Profession Assured.

The young lawyer had waited many days for clients, and still they did not come. His bills were mounting higher and higher, and, sad to say, some of his creditors were becoming impatient. At this very minute his father, whom he owed for his last winter's overcoat, was sitting beside his desk uttering all sorts of dire threats.

"I'll pay you when I can," he said. "Well, that don't satisfy me," retorted the father. "What would happen, do you think, if I were to take this matter to the courts and sue you?"
"You'd get judgment, of course," said the young lawyer.
"Then in your own opinion you have not a leg left to stand on," insisted the father.
"Not a leg," returned the briefless youth.

"Very well, then, I shall proceed at once," said the father, rising.
"I certainly advise you to," said the lawyer, with a gleam in his eye.
"I shall most certainly accept your advice," retorted the father, sarcastically.
"Good," said the lawyer. "What is the amount of your bill?"
"Sixty-eight dollars and fifty cents," said the father.
"All right," said the lawyer. "Hand over six fifty, please."
"Six fifty?" said the father. "What for?"

"You have just consulted me in the matter of a suit at law and have asked that you accept my advice. My charge for that is $75, and the six fifty is the difference between your bill and mine," said the lawyer. "If I don't hear from you by noon to-morrow I shall put the matter in the hands of my attorneys. Good morning, sir." And the father went out marveling much that so ingenious a young gentleman should be a member of the great army of the unemployed.—Harpers Weekly.

A New Swindle.
Wealthy farmers of Armstrong and Westmoreland counties, Pennsylvania, have been victimized by a brand new confidence game. Recently a man in the garb of a minister called at the farm of W. B. Templeton, near Adrian, and asked for lodgings for the night. Templeton, impressed by the stranger, readily consented. Next morning, before the stranger departed, a man and woman hurriedly drove up to the farm house, and said they had heard that a preacher was stopping there. They wanted to get married at once, and the "minister" performed the ceremony.
Templeton and his wife signed the certificate as witnesses. A week later the alleged marriage certificate turned up in the First National bank at East Brady as a promissory note for $200, which Templeton had to pay. A number of other farmers have been swindled in the same manner.—New York Tribune.

A Little Devil in the Heart.
An insane devil lurks in the heart of even the most sainted woman. It is the little devil that makes a young wife ask her devoted husband which of the two he would save if she and her mother were drowning, writes William J. Locke in his story "Simple Septimus," in the American Magazine. It is the same little devil that is responsible for infinite mendacity on the part of men. "Have you said that to another woman?" No; of course he hadn't, and the wretch is instantly perjured. "My immortal soul," says the good fellow, instantaneously converted into an atrocious liar; and the little devil coos with satisfaction and curls himself up snugly to sleep.

Old-Time Speed Maniacs.
A century and a half ago the wayfarer on England's great highways was little better off in the matter of security from accident than he is in these days of speed-loving motorists. A French traveler in 1765, recording his journey from Dover to London, explained the existence of the wayside footpath marked off by posts as being due to "the extreme speed at which the English vehicles drive in the country (contrary to their practice in the towns), never stopping to avoid running over and maiming foot passengers."

The Sweetest Songster.
Over the breakfast Miss Dorothy, the enthusiastic ornithologist of the boarding house, discussed the merits of the nightingale, lark, thrush and so forth.
"And which, Mr. Hunker?" exclaimed Miss Dorothy, "which of all the song birds are you fondest of?"
"I prefer the hen, Miss Dorothy."
"But the hen isn't a song-bird at all!" objected Miss Dorothy.
"Well," replied Hunker, tapping another hard-boiled egg. "It's the only bird whose lay I care for!"

What Did He Mean?
"You say you are compelled to stay by your parents?"
"Yes."
"You shouldn't."
"Why?"
"Because you have no voice in the matter."—Baltimore American.

THE WEATHER

Last night threatened not merely a frost but a freeze, but it did not materialize. The cold wind kept up till dawn and the air was not still enough for a freeze.

Mr. William Hayes tells the Herald that the squashes and other vegetables on his place were covered up last night to protect them from the expected freeze, but it did not come. He was surprised this morning at discovering that the night had brought no frost.

A chilly west wind has blown all day, but in sunny spots where the wind did not strike it has been warm and easy to people sitting out doors. The wind has driven the chill into the house and people have been busy at starting up their furnace fire.

The mercury at two o'clock stood at sixty-seven degrees.

CITY BRIEFS

Great day for the mountain excursion.

The board of registrars are not very busy so far.

Portsmouth certainly has its share of tramp dogs.

The Portsmouth Country club will be active socially all winter.

Most of the trees on Pleasant street will soon get the axe.

There was considerable interest here in the Brooklyn Marathon race.

The last week day of summer train service on the Boston and Maine railroad.

Have your shoes repaired at John Martin's, 21 Congress street.

The railroad freight yard stealing will now stop for a time.

Football at the Plains this afternoon. The last high vs. the Dover team.

Charles W. Stever has been selected candidate of the new government reorganization on the Seaboard road.

The question when the York bridge troubles are to be settled by the Maine courts is about as indefinite as how old is Ann.

I will have an opening and sale of millinery on Saturday at No. 31 Hanover street, corner of Vaughan street. Mrs. Henry McCue.

The State Grange annual meeting in this city will mean a busy week for the local merchants.

The Boy State automobile endurance test, has been called off with three cars still with power on wheels. They will all be awarded cups and a certificate of their performance which is of more value than the win of the Golden Ball.

It was a decided change in the weather and resulted in a great deal of attention being paid to the furnace on Friday afternoon and evening.

The Plymouth branch of the National Grange has a great program for tonight and evening for both branches and it is hoped the interest will be up to the very best.

WOMAN KILLED AT FIRE IN WINTHROP, MASS.

Several Others Hurt and Property Loss Is Many Thousands

Boston, Oct. 3.—Search is being made today in the ruins of a $300,000 fire at Winthrop Beach for the body of Mrs. Henry Dumont, a guest at Crest Hall, who fell back from a third window into a furnace of flames.

Just as firemen "Jack" McCarthy and William Taylor of Winthrop fire department were climbing to her aid on a ladder.

While firemen are going through the smoldering ruins for the body of Mrs. Dumont another search is being conducted by the police in the alleyway between the ruins of Crest Hall and the new annex for $1200 worth of diamonds that were lost by Mrs. J. W. Ide, who jumped from a second story window and escaped with a broken leg.

The other injured are Miss Nellie Foley, twenty years, domestic at Ocean View House; overcome by smoke in top floor room and removed by State Officer J. A. Philbrick, Bush Street, Room 3, Revere, face and hands cut, treated at Metcalf hospital.

Mr. Polkin, fireman of Winthrop, severe bruises. Walter G. Yeaman, legs broken in fall while sliding down rope.

Eight or ten others who were trapped on the piazzas of the hotel were taken out by firemen, and Maurice E. O'Shea and Fred Cronin of East Boston succeeded in rescuing a woman and a girl from one of the upper stories.

Starting in the boiler room of Crest Hall, on Winthrop boulevard, the sweep through that structure, then followed the destruction of the Ocean View house, Crest Hall Annex, the Millbank villa, a new concert building recently erected to take the place of the one destroyed by fire a year ago; the Crest Hall stables, the home of George Knowles at No. 33 Ocean avenue, Clara M. Hall's cottage at No. 37 Ocean avenue, Thomas J. Flynn's cottage at No. 28 Ocean avenue, Annie C. Wood's cottage at No. 34 Ocean avenue, Walter Haynes' cottage at No. 77 Shore drive, Harry Blandford's cottage at No. 41 Edwin in balcony on site at Hay and Dow's Street. Damage was done also to the Ellen B. Neilan's cottage at No. 32 train street, and to Mary E. Buckley's cottage at No. 92 Shore drive.

Many guests were asleep when the fire was discovered in Crest Hall, and were trapped by the smoke and unable to find their way from the building. Citizens, policemen, firemen and hotel employees rushed into the blazing structure and led women and children to places of safety.

Three companies of regulars from Fort Lynde were sent at the request of the Winthrop selectmen to guard the property and household goods that had been carried into the streets from a score of cottages in the danger zone.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS

Found at the Same Time on a Pear Tree in a Portsmouth Yard

Fruit and flowers are flourishing together on a large Sorbus pear tree in the yard at Frank J. Bickford's, No. 2 Ishington street, this city.

The tree bears a fair crop of pears of good size and quality, and has a good sprinkling of pretty white pear blossoms all through the top.

Many of the leaves have fallen, affording a fine view of the fruit and flowers together.

Neither Mr. and Mrs. Bickford can offer any explanation for this phenomenon.

MONDAY EVENING, OCT. 12

The Portsmouth Orchestral club's first concert and ball, Freeman's hall. Grand orchestra of 18 pieces conducted by Mr. Edwin C. Cary, the famous organ soloist and leader of Cary's band of Boston. The concert program will be the best ever given by the club and will include a new solo by Mr. Cary. The grand ball will be held by a country brass band in rural costumes and all dancers are requested to wear any old thing.

A limited number of reserved seats in balcony on sale at Hay and Dow's Street. Damage was done also to the Ellen B. Neilan's cottage at No. 32
